Educational Jubilee.
MR. EDITOR: The grand jubilee gathering of the public school teachers of Knox county will meet with the teachers of West Knox county at Cedar Springs, on the 28th and 27th of December, 1878, at 9:30 o'clock a. m.
Teachers, you have truly accomplished a noble work in your school-rooms. I am truly glad to be able to congratulate you, one and all, upon the grand advance you have made in your noble profession. But there is more yet to accomplish. Many difficulties yet to overcome. Your success in the past is an earnest of your future triumph. I visited your school-rooms in 1877, and I have also visited them in 1878. The contrast in appearance and manner of operation was observable even to the most casual observer. Your work is more thorough, and yet much greater advancement has been attained. In all this you have the undoubted right to rejoice and proudly congratulate each other. But the common cause of humanity and indeed all that is dear to the heart of the patriot, philanthropist, scholar and the Christian calls aloud to the noble, self-sacrificing band of public instructors, "forward with you!" The command will be promptly and efficiently obeyed. On their banner is inscribed, "Excelsior!"

MARYVILLE, TENN., Dec. 11, '78
MR. EDITOR: Our town and community sustains a great loss in the departure of Prof. S. Z. Sharp. He is one of the best educators our State has had, and has for ten years made his home at this place, laboring successfully in teaching and training the young, first as Principal of New Providence Institute, and then as Professor in Maryville College, having charge of the normal department. But his great skill and well-deserved reputation has called him to a greater and wider field of action, being chosen President of a College in Ohio. He and his family started Tuesday morning for their new home. They leave many sweet memories, and many good wishes go with them.
The subject of education is brought to mind in connection with educators. Our excellent County Superintendent, Dr. Franklin Elliott, has called an Institute for the teachers of Blount county to be held at this place the 26th, 27th and 28th of the present month. He has an excellent programme, and a good corps of teachers assigned to the different topics. All educators in and out of the county will meet a hearty welcome in our hospitable town, and everybody will endeavor to make it as happy a Christmas as they could enjoy elsewhere.
Dr. Elliott is one of our live men, deeply interested in the cause of education, and the welfare of the young. He is an enthusiast on the subject, coupled with the ability to throw his enthusiasm into effective work.
We are having something of a temperance revival just now. Our Thanksgiving day in the course of remarks in our Union services, whereupon it was agreed to hold a temperance meeting the Sabbath night following, which was well attended and again adjourned to meet the next Wednesday night, being the appointed time for Col. J. J. Hickman, to deliver his temperance address. When the time came there was a large attendance and Col. Hickman organized a different church and elected as officers, Dr. F. Elliott, President; Prof. D. P. Hurley, V. P.; John A. Sibley, Secretary; Mrs. Julia Corcock, Treasurer.
Something ought to be done in our town in this respect. On public days it is too often the case that our women can not venture on the principal streets on account of the profanity and wild conduct of drunken men.
One of our saloon keepers "vomited the ranch" a few days ago, and started for home. This was not known unless he feared the "judgment day." Before Judge Rodgers two weeks hence.

Obituary.
"Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." These words were impressed upon our mind on seeing a good woman die, Mary A. Nichols, wife of James Nichols, of Marshall, North Carolina, and daughter of H. A. Barnard, was born April 16th, 1826; was married September 10th, 1846; and died of dropsy, at her home, without a struggle, December 5th, 1878, aged 52 years, 7 months and 20 days. She made a profession of religion when quite young, and attached herself to the Methodist Episcopal church. She was never married or dishonored her profession, neglect her duties, or forget her obligations to her church. Her house has been a home for all ministers of the gospel, and in every marriage to her death—none were ever turned away, but all were made to feel at home when there. No ordinary sacrifice was considered too great for her to make, to accommodate them in every way minister to their wants. She loved the church and her ministers. She was a kind, loving, and confiding wife; an indulgent and affectionate mother; a good neighbor, very sympathetic in her nature, so that all who knew her loved her. The writer has known her intimately most of her life, and never saw her at any time, speak hard of any one; but seemed ever ready to cover their faults rather than magnify them. She had been greatly afflicted for several years, but never murmured or seemed to complain, but calmly and quietly bore it all, and by her actions said, the will of the Lord be done. So lived, and so passed away a good woman, who was loved by all who knew her, and whose loss is a great one.
Dec. 6th, 1878. J. A. REAGAN.

Fate of an East Tennessean.
Says the Greenville New Era of this week:
"John McGaughey, a son of Richard McGaughey, and a grandson of the late Major John McGaughey, was killed in December, Georgia, a few days ago. He was shot in the head with buckshot, one of them grazing the cheek of his wife, nee Miss Fannie Vance, formerly of Greenville, who was sitting beside him. The wound was instantly fatal. A negro who had been in his employ was thought to be the murderer, and was arrested and placed in jail, from which a mob took him and lynched him."

announcement that Lieutenant John W. Andes, one of the bravest of the brave, in one of the best regiments we had in the late war, is going to write up the reminiscences of his regiment, (the Second Tennessee Cavalry.) While the present writer belonged to a different regiment, he was in the same brigade and serving on staff duty, was in more bloody conflicts with the Second than his own, and Lieutenant Andes was always in the front rank when duty called. If he writes as well as he fought, the world can but admire his letters, and the CHRONICLER will be sought everywhere because of them.
Chancery Court is now in session, Hon. W. B. Staley presiding. This is Chancellor Staley's first term here, and he is making himself very popular in his official position. As nature abhors a vacuum, so he seems to abhor old cases on the docket. The Knoxville bar is represented by Hon. O. P. Temple, Hon. E. T. Hall, Hon. M. L. Hall, while Hon. George Brown and Col. A. Caldwell went home this morning.

THERE'S NO MISTAKE, that one-half the spasms and cramps in children are the result of worms, and even adults are frequently treated under mistake, while the genuine seat of the disease is worms. Try "Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Vermifuge," taking great care to see "Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh," on the label, and you will learn a grand secret.

A Look Through Fanz's Slaughter House.
MR. EDITOR: Having business at Mr. Fanz's slaughter house at Knoxville, curiosity induced me to look through it. An elegant brick, 50 feet by 100. It is situated on Second Creek, near the Clinton pike, in the suburbs of the city. The location has been well selected on a good stream of water, easy of access, with dry rolling stock pens. The hogs are driven from the pens by little boys up an incline plane to an apartment outside of the gable end of the house. Here they are killed, knocked down and stuck, and from thence rolled down into the scalding vats of water at 145° Fahrenheit. The hogs are lifted out of the vat by a lever, which a man can do easily with one hand, and landed on a floor, where they are scalded, then attached to the hooks or "gambrel sticks," and pushed off where they swing, ready for market. From this point they are easily moved on toward the place of cutting up, the hooks moving on rollers. Here they are taken down and cut out and placed upon wagons and taken to the place of salting and packing. The lard is rendered in large cauldrons. The sausage is ground by a steam engine, which is attached to the establishment, and packed in neat boxes of some twenty-five pounds, ready for shipment. There is a small apartment exterior to the main building for drying the bologna sausage.
All this work goes on simultaneously, killing and cleaning at the rate of four hogs per minute. It will be observed the live hogs are transported themselves up to the place of death, gravity taking them down through the various processes until landed on the drag at the other end of the house, no expense of labor in lifting porkers being required. The latest improvements being adopted. The hands (men, women and boys) were familiar with the work of their particular departments, and were all busy as bees, working like they were fighting a fire, except the boys who were "standing around" with their hands in their pockets like he was waiting for something to turn up, Micawber-like. Somebody said "he was bawling."
